

September 18, 2009
Science Theatre General Body Meeting #1
www.sciencetheatre.org

Contact: sciencet@pa.msu.edu

Science Theatre is a science outreach organization that seeks to educate and excite students of all ages through live, interactive demonstrations.

Science Theatre travels! We have traveled all throughout Michigan, even to the Upper Peninsula! Transportation is already provided to volunteers.

You can do as much or as little in Science Theatre as you want, there are no obligations or dues. After volunteering 8 hours you will be considered an official member, and receive a splendid looking t-shirt.

How can you volunteer? Sign up for the mailing list! You'll receive e-mails about each upcoming show and can choose which you'd like to participate in. Contact Assistant Director Nathan Sanders (sande253@msu.edu) to join the mailing list.

Further ways to get involved:

- Biology Department Projects:
Help to construct new interactive biology demonstrations!
Contact Biology Director Tess Jeffers: jeffer60@msu.edu
- Quantum Mechanics Show:
A special 45 minute scripted show;
Express your interest now to join in on rehearsals for future performances;
Volunteer for the first show is on Tuesday, Oct 13 if you want to get involved early!
Contact Assistant Physics Director Jessie Muir: muirjess@msu.edu
- High Energy Physics Show:
Help develop a new particle physics show;
It will be performed for Science Olympiad at the end of the spring semester.
Contact Assistant Physics Director Jessie Muir: muirjess@msu.edu

- Astronomy Show :
This is a new show to demonstrate basic concepts in astronomy to a wide audience;
You can build props, write scripts, and develop new demonstrations!
Contact Assistant Public Relations Director Tyler Jones jonesty3@msu.edu
- The Science Theatre Wiki:
You can get involved developing demonstrations:
 - Importing old demonstration writeups to the Science Theatre Wiki
 - Making write ups for demos that don't have one
 - Developing new demosContact Assistant Director Nathan Sanders: sande253@msu.edu
- Science Theatre Video Series
Help bring Science Theatre to schools we can't visit in person!
To develop an online video series, we need you to:
 - Brainstorm ideas for videos
 - Write scripts
 - Act!Contact Public Relations Director Steve DeCamp: decampst@msu.edu

...and much more! All volunteering opportunities will be announced through the mailing list.